STARS has hosted two Winter Concerts, the first being the Vivente Trio on 19 June and then Sneaks Noise on 10 July.

The Vivente Trio featured the ever popular Minas Berberyan accompanied by Julia Grenfell and Suzanne Handel and the audience appreciated the sheer brilliance of each musician as they played works by Ibert, Massenet, Saint-Saens and others, featuring violin, harp and flute. It was a warm and friendly concert and STARS will certainly look forward to future concerts by this Trio.

Sneaks Noise featuring local teacher Allye Sinclair and Tim Kersten played selected pieces for Cello and guitar and the concert opened with a special performance by young schoolgirl Bea Hanna who showed a talent well beyond her 15 years. A feature of this afternoon was the guest hosting role of Julie Howard from ABC Classic FM. Julie interviewed Allye and Tim in her professional but warm manner asking a series of questions about their entry into music. STARS thanks Julie for giving her precious time to add another dimension to the Winter Concert.

Their performances are entertaining and engaging with each group member having the unique ability to connect with their audience. Their love and passion for music is immediately evident and their relaxed and charming style ensures you walk away from every performance feeling like you have had personal and unique experience.

The group started out as eight friends from Brighton High School who all participated in the school's music program. Now, twenty years on, Limited Edition's long history and love for what they do has seen their voices meld together to produce a sound which is truly distinctive and memorable.
